Feasting With Panthers, No. 2-- Red Agent Had Reason to Smile

LONDON—(NEA)—Commander Eugene Ivanov, 37, former Soviet assistant naval attaché in London, was no spy in the sense of microdots and cipher codes.

No the smiling Russian naval commander was a product of what is known here as the Lenin Cherm School. His assignment: to worm his way into London high society, there to pick up information and contacts which might prove useful to the Soviets.

Ivanov was sent here to construct a picture of the private lives and views of British politicians and officials. In particular, he was told to watch for sexual peculiarities or other character defects which might make these men vulnerable to Russian blackmail.

The burly Russian arrived here in mid 1960 armed with a perfect command of the English language and an unlimited expense account. He proceeded to make himself the life of every embassy party.

He drove a sporty car, ordered his suits from Savile Row, and displayed a heroic capacity for alcohol. He also proved to be a superb bridge player, once winning $2,240 in an evening's play.

Then in the summer of 1961 Ivanov shared a mistress, attractive model Christine Keeler, with the British Secretary of State for War, John Profumo. It was this event which rocked the British government, carrying as it does grave implications of a security breach.

Ivanov revealed still another side of his many-faceted personality during the Cuban crisis last October when he suddenly dropped his genial mask for the poker face of the Soviet intelligence agent.

This should have served as a warning to members of Britain's smart set who insist upon "feasting with panthers," or playing fast and loose with the nation's security. For Ivanov was almost certainly a full-time member of G.R.U., the Soviet military secret service which deals with military espionage abroad.

The warning, however, was ignored, and Ivanov was as much in demand as ever at parties. In fact, the husky Russian gained quite a reputation as a wit. For example, he told friends that he took late lunch every day so that he could see "Watch

IVANOV AND WIFE: Wit and a heroic capacity for vodka.

With Mother" on television.

On another occasion when his British guide on a pub-crawling tour of London's East End got lost, Ivanov whipped out a street map on which the route from the Soviet embassy to the headquarters of Britain's counter-espionage MI5 was clearly marked in pencil. This was Ivanov's idea of a joke.

Sometimes Ivanov talked too much for his own good. Once after vodka he confided his own personal solution to the Cold War problem.

"We should have a spaceship, he said, "which would circle the earth and drop a bomb . . . on New York; another . . . on London; and the last . . . on Moscow."

Ivanov may have been ignored by some, considered a menace by others, but to Christine Keeler he was simply "this wonderful huggy bear of a man."

"He was rugged with a hairy chest, strong and agile," she recalled.

Christine met Ivanov in June 1961 and for a while shared her favors with the Russian and Profumo. Often the two men missed each other by seconds, Profumo arriving at Christine's apartment just as Ivanov drove off.

The question which bothers most Britons is whether Christine pumped Profumo for defense secrets to pass on to Ivanov, a question which will probably never be answered.

Although he enjoyed reading sexy James Bond thrillers, Ivanov was something of a prude, according to Christine. He did not like fast women, objected to Christine even wearing make-up.

Ivanov, himself, might have walked straight out of a James Bond Thriller when he went into action during the October Cuban crisis.

"Ivanov was the one man who maintained contact between Fidel Castro's regime and the West," declared Dr. Stephen Ward, the man who introduced Ivanov to his 21-year-old protégé.

"Ivanov, through his contacts at the Foreign Office, acted as linkman in every major diplomatic decision taken during the Cuban crisis," Ward insisted.

"That any one so minor as an assistant naval attaché would be entrusted with such a delicate diplomatic mission seems incredible to most observers here. Yet, there is the doubt that Ivanov and the ubiquitous Dr. Ward were frantically pulling wires during the Cuban crisis."

Among others they saw during the crisis were Viscount Astor, the Earl of Arran and Sir Godfrey Nicholson, a Tory member of Parliament.

In other words, Britain's "old boy" network was placed at the service of Soviet diplomacy thanks to Dr. Ward, who had, after all, influential connections.

Rockefeller in Challenge to Goldwater

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has challenged Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to an all-out liberal vs. conservative fight for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

In a policy statement tantamount to announcing his candidacy, the New York governor said Sunday the Goldwater strategy is to try to weld conservative, Southern and Western support while writing off Northern states. This, Rockefeller said, "would not only defeat the Republican party in 1964 but would destroy it altogether."

Rockefeller said it was incredible that the Republicans would offer such an alternative to the "unprincipled opportunism that has captured the Democratic party."

He added: "That alternative will never be found in a party of extremism, a party of sectionalism, a party of racism, a party that disclaims responsibility for most of the population before it even starts its campaign for their support."

Goldwater, who was not named in the statement, made no immediate response. But associates said they interpreted Rockefeller's attack as a declaration of war they were certain the senator would accept, even though he remains an unannounced belligerent.

They added that if Goldwater is writing off the industrial North as Rockefeller charged, the New York governor is giving up on Republican chances to collect electoral votes in the South.

Rockefeller's blast is regarded in Washington as the opening gun of a vigorous comeback campaign for the nomination. He was considered by many observers the leading contender until his recent marriage to a divorced mother of four children.

In the period between his reelection as governor last year and his remarriage, Rockefeller tried with some success to warm up the conservatives to his cause by making what many of his listeners called "good Republican speeches" in the Midwest.

Cambridge Paralyzed by Race Strife

CAMBRIDGE, Md (AP)—Semi-paralyzed by racial strife and a resultant military clampdown, this Southern-oriented city of 12,000 anxiously awaited outside help today to solve its problems.

With 400 National Guardsmen posted at trouble spots, and business plummeting, white leaders got off a wire to Gov. J. Millard Tawes urgently requesting him to come here quickly for discussions.

They said they wanted to talk to the governor about the hardships imposed by militia law, invoked after six white persons were wounded in a wave of violence last week.

The National Guard leaders, among other things, decreed a 9 p.m. off-the-streets curfew, a 7 p.m. closing hour for all commercial establishments, and a total ban on sale of alcoholic drink.

Attitudes on both sides seemed to be hardening today. Gloria Richardson, militant leader of the integrationists, announced that there would be some "non-violent direct action" during the day. Under militia law, a modified form of martial law, all demonstrations are forbidden.

On the other hand, a movement was under way to organize a citizens council of white persons to oppose the Negro drive. There were considerable rumblings among some segments of the white population that "this state is going too far on the side of the Negro."

State Has 22 Violent Deaths

A Clay County man was fatally injured Sunday when his car struck a pickup truck near Corning. The death brought to 22 the number of violent deaths in Arkansas in the week ended at midnight Sunday.

Quint Tyler, 68, was killed when his car struck a truck driven by C. R. Mason, 68. Both men lived at Knobel, where the wreck occurred. It is eight miles south of Corning.

Seven persons died in a car-train crash near Tyroneza last Thursday.

Rail Strike May Freeze Mails

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Little Rock Postmaster Roy L. Sharpe says a railroad strike could practically freeze the mails.

Unions have delayed until July 29 their threat to strike over contract disagreements.

Should they strike, Sharpe said, no second, third or fourth class mail would be delivered beyond a radius of 150 miles. Second class mail consists mostly of newspapers and magazines, third class is largely advertising circulars and fourth class includes all parcel post.

Sharpe said first class mail would continue to be accepted for all destinations and would be moved by alternative transportation. He said Arkansas' truck routes connecting cities would make it one of the more fortunate states should a strike come about.

Finds Both Rails, Union at Fault

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz says the four-year-old dispute over railroad work rules is headed toward a compulsory solution because both the carriers and the unions are guilty of "a failure of responsibility."

"There is no affirmative attempt by either side in this situation to do anything about settling it even at this hour," Wirtz said Sunday as a special presidential panel prepared to sift the facts in the jobs tangle.

"There has been at this point an apparent assumption by both parties that somebody else, the government, the Congress, whoever it may be, is going to decide this," the secretary said in a televised interview.

Still, Wirtz added, he hopes that "when both of these parties are looking down the gun barrel" of possible congressional action, "there is going to be a real facing up to the implications of the fact that if they don't settle, the prospect is something which will weaken the whole institution of collective bargaining."

Wirtz is chairman of the special committee that begins today to lay the basis for a report President Kennedy plans to send to Congress July 22 aimed at solving the rules dispute. Wirtz refused to say whether the administration would recommend compulsory arbitration.

Carrier and union representatives will be standing by as the panel meets today, ready for questioning on specific points. Tuesday the committee will hold separate and joint sessions with the two sides, hoping to begin writing a report for Kennedy on Wednesday.

The railroads have postponed until July 29 putting into effect new work rules designed to eliminate gradually about 60,000 jobs they claim are unnecessary. The five operating unions, which say the jobs are essential for safe and efficient train operations, have promised to delay strike action until that date.

Over the weekend, Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said they were opposed to legislation that would require compulsory arbitration of the dispute.

Time to Heal Soviet, China Differences

By THE STAR STAFF

MOSCOW (AP)—Diplomats predict the Soviet and Communist Chinese negotiators will conclude their deadlocked ideological talks soon with a meaningless acceding compromise assuring that time will heal the differences in the Communist camp.

The seriousness of the split between the Communist giants was emphasized by publication Saturday of a 35,000-word Soviet Communist party statement accusing the Chinese of being hypocrites and warmongers bent on a nuclear war with the West.

The Soviet statement, an open letter to the Communist parties of the world, was an official reply to the Chinese attack June 14 on Premier Khrushchev's policy of spreading communism by living in peace with the West. It was spread over four pages of the party newspaper Pravda.

Pravda also published the Communist Chinese letter, disclosing to the Soviet people for the first time the extent of the historic breach in the Communist movement.

The Soviet statement vigorously restated Moscow's opposition to Peking's hard line and defended Khrushchev's arguments that communism can overcome capitalism through peaceful competition.

Russia Hurls Accusations at Red China

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today accused Red China of standing only "one step from a schism of the World Communist movement and the creation of a new international Communist center."

The government newspaper Izvestia also charged that the Chinese were attempting to take over leadership of the African-Asian nations and set the colored races against the whites.

Izvestia published the charges as representatives of the warring Soviet and Chinese Communist parties resumed talks on their ideological differences over Premier Khrushchev's cold war policies.

Youths Are Found Alive in Mine Shaft

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Thank in part to three bicycles, a trio of teen-age adventurers were alive and in good spirits today after spending more than 50 hours in an abandoned, gas-contaminated coal mine in suburban Castle Shannon.

Bobby Abbot, 15, Danny O'Kain and Billy Burke, each 13, were pulled 2,000 feet to safety Saturday by a team of mine rescue experts who had not really believed the boys were in the mine.

All three were listed in satisfactory condition at St. Clair Memorial Hospital where they were being treated for exposure and dehydration. Hospital officials said the Burke youth was suffering from a minor lung disorder.

The boys entered the mine Thursday afternoon after parking their bicycles near the entrance. For nearly two days mine-rescue teams combed the myriad passageways of the dank mine without turning up a trace of the youths. Only the parents' steadfast belief, their boys were inside.

"I knew they wouldn't leave their bikes there and run away," said Bobby Abbot's father.

"The boys' bikes were their prized possessions," said Billy Burke's mother. "I knew they wouldn't leave them. They had to be in the mine."

The boys said they had been in the mine several times before but this time, "We made a wrong turn."

Bomb Shatters Phone Booth

MEMPHIS (AP)—A Homemade

bomb shattered a telephone booth Sunday night and police found another unexploded bomb near by. Asst. Police Chief Henry Lux said a bomb ripped apart the telephone booth and cracked window glass at a store 10 feet away.

The unexploded bomb, found about a block from the booth, had been lighted but the fuse went out. Lux said it was made of a small can filled with gunpowder.

Wallace Raps Kennedy for Race Trouble

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama who challenged the federal government over integration in education, testifies today on another civil rights matter — discrimination in public accommodations.

Wallace appears before the Senate Commerce Committee as it resumes hearings on one plank of President Kennedy's civil rights program — a proposal to prohibit racial discrimination in such places as hotels and restaurants.

Wallace follows another southern governor, Ross Barnett of Mississippi, who testified against the measure Friday.

Last June 1 Wallace stood in a doorway at the University of Alabama and blocked an attempt by two Negroes to enter and enroll. Several hours later, after Kennedy had ordered units of the Alabama National Guard into federal service, he left the campus and the Negroes enrolled.

Wallace's appearance followed statement Sunday by a civil rights leader that national chain stores which discriminate racially in their employment or service policies will be boycotted.

James L. Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said he expected the boycott to begin shortly after a mass march on Washington planned for Aug. 28—to press for civil rights legislation.

Farmer, a Negro, told Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., in an interview taped for broadcast in New York that some nationwide firms had agreed to end discrimination in employment and service. But a boycott is planned against other "offending firms," mainly department and variety stores, he said.

Farmer said there was no intention of having Negroes who march on Washington stage sit-ins at Capitol offices. But he added that in event of a filibuster by Southern senators "I think some drastic action might have to be taken."

He said if Congress takes a recess in late August, "this would be indeed a new form of filibuster."

Murder Trial Slated to Start

FORT SMITH (AP)—The first degree murder trial of Phillip Clayton Dimick Jr., 20, of Jefferson, Ore., is to begin Wednesday in Sebastian Circuit Court in Ft. Smith.

Dimick is charged in the fatal stabbing of Denver Hubbard, 23, of Van Buren, Ark., during a dispute over a small statue of a woman.

Dimick is stationed at Fort Chaffee.

MOSCOW (AP)—Jovial and apparently optimistic, Premier Khrushchev personally opened talks today on a limited nuclear test ban agreement with special envoys of President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Sitting in a Kremlin conference room with U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Britain's Lord Hailsham, the Soviet leader quipped: "Shall we start off by signing the agreement right away?"

Harriman shoved a pencil and pad across the table toward Khrushchev. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko grinned to his chief and said: "Sign it and leave it to be filled in."

The conference is expected to last 10 days.

Khrushchev's mood seemed to share the optimism of both the British and Americans about the success in agreeing on a prohibition which would bar nuclear test explosions in the air, in space and under water.

The Western side saw no prospect of getting a complete ban to cover underground explosions also.

Increasing the prospects for an agreement was the worsening split between the Soviet Union and Red China, Westerners here believed.

News photographers were allowed to enter the conference room before the actual talks began to take pictures of the negotiators.

The conference began with nine representatives on the U.S. and British side and five on the Soviet side.

Both Western and Communist circles seemed optimistic about chances of agreeing on a ban of nuclear tests in the air, in space and under water.

Such a pact could be readily policed because nuclear explosions under any of these conditions can be detected from great distances. It would also outlaw the tests which produce radioactive nuclear fallout.

Khrushchev in a speech in East Berlin July 2 approved a Western proposal for an unpoliced partial ban. Underground tests were exempted to avoid the thorny issue of on-site inspection.

At the time Khrushchev approved a partial test ban, he revived the Soviet proposal for a non-aggression treaty between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communist Warsaw Pact alliance. He said the test ban and the non-aggression pact should be signed simultaneously but U.S. officials were not sure that he was making a non-aggression treaty the price of a test ban.

Woman on Trial for G. Larceny

In Hempstead Circuit Court today Martha Bogan, of Texas, entered a plea of not guilty to grand larceny by baillee and a jury was hearing the case this afternoon.

She was charged with obtaining several thousand dollars from a Hempstead couple. The case is likely to go to the jury this afternoon.

Jennings C. Coleman, charged with violation of the securities act in connection with some sold to M. S. Bates of Hope, entered a plea of guilty and was to be sentenced later today.

Arsena Goodwin, charged with driving while intoxicated, was convicted in municipal court and the conviction was upheld.

The jury will be dismissed following today's case as all the civic cases scheduled have been settled.

SHORTY A 2-Minute Short Story

EARLY MORNING ROBOT
By PATRICIA ANOTELLI

"Honestly, Dick, getting you going in the morning is a job for a sergeant, not a wife!" Madge banged the glass of juice down on the table, her blue eyes flashing with anger.

"Every morning I have to call you four times before you'll get out of bed. Then I have to call you two more times to get you out of the bath room! Do you go to sleep in there?"

A strong-looking male hand reached out from behind the newspaper waving an empty coffee cup in the air. Silently Madge poured coffee into it, fighting an urge to fill it to overflowing simply to see if there was life in the old boy this early in the day.

It's like living with two different men, Madge thought. At night Dick was a stimulating, interesting guy and she dearly loved him. But mornings...! Who can love a robot?

Later she telephoned Carol, her best friend, and gave out with her problem.

"It's the same thing every day!" Madge concluded, close to tears. "Maybe if he'd eat some breakfast he'd wake up and talk to me in the morning. But no! Coffee and juice is all he wants."

She dabbed at her eyes with a hanky. "I even use the same words every day to get him going. I'm sick of the sound of my own voice!"

"You're lucky he doesn't talk in the morning," Carol said. "I don't believe in it myself. Jim is the leap-out-of-bed, start-the-day-with-a-song type. He's so cheerful in the morning I can hardly stand it. After all, you've only been married two months. You'll get used to it."

"That's just the trouble," Madge wailed. "We've been married two months and I'm already tired of our morning routine! What will I

Her husband was full of life, except in the morning.

"Ummm?" Dick said blankly, as his dark head disappeared behind the morning paper.

Madge sighed and shook her blond head in disgust. Any conversation with Dick before he had at least two cups of coffee in the morning left much to be desired.

"You're a mechanical man," she went on, her usual sunny disposition turned stormy. "Some-do for the rest of my life?"

Her mind searched for the answer to her problem as she went about her household tasks. Sorting clothes and putting them into the washer, she muttered, "They've got machines to wash clothes, dry clothes, wash dishes, grind up garbage. Why doesn't somebody invent a get-your-husband-up-in-the-morning machine and save me from becoming a nag?"

"Wait a minute! Maybe she already had such a machine..."

The next morning there was Madge in her sunny kitchen armed with pencil, notebook and watch.

"Dick! Time to get up!" she called cheerfully. She recorded the exact words she'd just used.

Their entire morning routine was recorded by Madge with split-second accuracy and a sly smile.

Later that day, Madge carried out step two of her plan. Biting her lips in concentration, she consulted her notebook often to make sure every detail was correct.

The next morning Madge checked the breakfast table to see that the glass of juice was in the proper place, the paper neatly folded beside it and the coffee

Public Warned Looking at Eclipse Can Result in Permanent Damage to Eyes

On April 8, 1959, 170 Australians — principally school children — suffered permanent retinal damage and partial loss of central vision in watching an eclipse of the sun.

Similar eye damage may be anticipated over most of North America on July 20, the date of our next solar eclipse, total from Alaska to Maine. A partial eclipse will be visible over most of the continent.

There is real risk of eye damage in viewing an eclipse according to Dr. Lloyd Guerin, Make shift methods include dark photographic negatives, glass that has been smoked over a candle, or a card with a pinhole opening. None of these devices is completely safe. Looking directly into the sun, even for a few seconds, involves the possibility of permanent retinal damage.

Unfortunately, sun glasses are no answer to the problem.

A piece of photo film, overexposed on its entire surface and developed, provides adequate protection.

A safe alternative is a pinhole camera. Punch a clean hole in one end of a shoe box with a pin or needle. In a darkened room, aim the pinhole directly at the sun. On the inside surface of the other end of the box, you see a clearly defined solar image.

In a completely darkened room, a larger image can be viewed at a greater distance. A pinhole works like a lens of universal focus but the greater the dis-distance, the less the illumination. The size of the disc will be 1/100th of the projection distance.

A solar eclipse has a deservedly popular appeal according to Dr. Guerin. He emphasizes that it should be an opportunity for us to extend our knowledge of the universe, but not an occasion for damaging our precious vision.

State Schools Up in New Buildings

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — School Management Magazine reports in its current issue that Arkansas ranks 22nd among all states in the number of schools built last year.

The magazine, a national publication dealing with school administration, said Arkansas built 89 schools costing $18,707,000 containing 675 classrooms for 19,492 pupils.

The magazine compiled the figures from detailed construction reports of school superintendents.

Her husband was full of life, except in the morning.

"Ummm?" Dick said blankly, as his dark head disappeared behind the morning paper.

Madge sighed and shook her blond head in disgust. Any conversation with Dick before he had at least two cups of coffee in the morning left much to be desired.

"You're a mechanical man," she went on, her usual sunny disposition turned stormy. "Some-

do for the rest of my life?"

Her mind searched for the answer to her problem as she went about her household tasks. Sorting clothes and putting them into the washer, she muttered, "They've got machines to wash clothes, dry clothes, wash dishes, grind up garbage. Why doesn't somebody invent a get-your-husband-up-in-the-morning machine and save me from becoming a nag?"

"Wait a minute! Maybe she already had such a machine..."

The next morning there was Madge in her sunny kitchen armed with pencil, notebook and watch.

"Dick! Time to get up!" she called cheerfully. She recorded the exact words she'd just used.

Their entire morning routine was recorded by Madge with split-second accuracy and a sly smile.

Later that day, Madge carried out step two of her plan. Biting her lips in concentration, she consulted her notebook often to make sure every detail was correct.

The next morning Madge checked the breakfast table to see that the glass of juice was in the proper place, the paper neatly folded beside it and the coffee

DARK PASSION FLOWERS IN HER FAMILY
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Until recently my husband and I were a content married couple intent upon rearing our children and making the home a cheerful hub of a cheerful family. The white frame house where we live is set in an acre of land gay with flowers. The only garden on the block to equal it belongs to my folks. My husband takes care of our yard and theirs.

Lately, while Dad has been away (he's a traveling salesman) my husband has spent extra time at my mother's. At first I thought nothing of this, then one night last week I was awakened by him slipping out of bed. Pretending to be asleep, I watched through half-closed eyes. In the dim light of the waning moon I saw him put on his clothes, tiptoe to the front door, and close it softly behind him. From the bedroom window I could see him cross the road to my mother's. After that was all quiet. He came home when the Eastern sky was turning a rosy pink. Still pretending to be asleep, I said nothing. This has happened on two separate occasions. Once I saw Mama on the porch waiting for him. They kissed. Now Papa is back and must guess the truth for he is dour and moody where once he was laughing.

Love for my husband is all but dead. The only reason I stay on is the children — he is so good to them and they are devoted to him. Yesterday I suggested we move to another town. Why, he asked, when this is our home?

I fell cross and discouraged and take my pent-up emotions out on the poor children. Sometimes I am afraid of what I may do. Should I talk to Papa? — H.

Dear H.: Problems like yours are not uncommon. Eugene O'Neill or one of the heavy-hearted Russian writers would have revealed in such a situation.

Religion permitting, I would say divorce. Certainly, if all you say is true, your husband has given you ample grounds. And, kind though he may be to the children, no man as weak morally as he could possibly be a good father.

But one thing is for sure — running away from the problem by moving to another town is no solution. If you have the guts, stay and face it. Destroy the dark flower of passion before it chokes off your garden. Ask your father's help in overcoming this unhealthy situation. By putting your heads together you may be able to lure your wandering spouses back into the fold and thus salvage two homes. Failing that, call a four-way conference and find out, if possible, what has brought on this nightmare. My leaflet, "Marital Harmony," may be of aid. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

Dear Helen: I attend church regular and try to live by what I believe but here I am 38 and still a widow. There's only one single man — a confirmed bachelor — in the entire congregation. There seem to be so few detached males and so many lonely females. Where does a good woman look for a nice man — and how — without being forward? — Lonely

Dear Lonely: There is so much that needs to be done on all levels in this imperfect world of ours that I wonder how any young woman — or man — can complain of loneliness. The author, Leo Rosten, recently wrote, "The purpose of life is not to be happy. The purpose of life is to matter, to be productive, to have it make some difference that you loved at all."

"Happiness, in the ancient, noble sense, means self-fulfillment — and is given to those who use to the fullest whatever talents God or luck or fate bestowed upon them."

What are your talents? Each human being possesses at least one. You undoubtedly have certain resources that could be put to good use either in church work, charity, or furthering your education so that you'll be a more interesting and worthwhile person.

But, unless you want to fail, don't make husband-hunting your objective. There are all kinds of clubs and organizations you could join. Do so in the spirit of what you can contribute, rather than what you can gain. Once you start to shift the emphasis from the pursuit of a mate to other interests, you will cease being lonely. For more ideas on this subject, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Don't Be Lonely!"

Dear Helen: I am a homemaker who has an idea that would help mothers with little tots up to three years old while traveling. How do I go about selling my idea and possibly patenting it? How can I tell if it or an idea similar to it has not already been patented? — Inventive.

Dear Inventive: The first step in obtaining a patent is to file fact

The Portuguese explorers who colonized Brazil found no native civilizations upon which to build a new society as had their Spanish counterparts in Peru and other countries on the west coast of South America. On the east coast, Indians were few. Rather than resist, the natives retreated, leaving the invaders to settle at widely scattered points along the narrow coastal plain.

An application with the United States Patent Office in Washington with a complete description of the invention and a list of claims setting forth the features of your invention that you believe are new. A filing fee of $30 must accompany your application.

After more than 2,500,000 existing patents are considered, a report will be sent to you. If the patent is allowed you must pay another fee before the patent is issued.

Naturally the patent is no guarantee of profit. Your product will have to be manufactured and marketed. Of course you could talk over your idea with a manufacturer of similar products to get his reaction on the selling potential. But then you run the risk of his appropriating the idea so, you see, there are many obstacles in your path. Good luck!

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Music Corp. Building Is Landmark

By JAMES BACON

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) - There's a new landmark in the San Fernando Valley, a charcoal gray tower that is a symbol of hope to both the meek and mighty of movieland.

It is the 15-story MCA building at Universal City, headquarters of an organization that in its short life has set a pace long-trenched producers eye with awe.

The name - MCA, for Music Corporation of America - is familiar. But the face is different. For decades, as a talent agency and later as the largest producer of filmed television shows, MCA dominated show business. Detractors called it "the octopus."

It was so successful that the federal government went after it as a monopoly. Under a compromise settlement, the octopus shed its largest tentacle - the talent agency - and concentrated on production.

It has set up shop at Universal, a subsidiary and long a major movie producer.

Today, you'd hardly recognize the place, due to change in the past year. Besides the tower, there are three other major buildings planned or building and a multitude of minor improvements.

When MCA founder Jules Stein founded a golden rivet this week to start construction on multimillion-dollar Universal City plaza, he told the assembled elite: "Universal City will be the entertainment capital of the world."

No one is likely to argue with him. The lot is humming with movie and TV shows in the making.

Charles Can't See Repeat in PGA Play

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Bob Charles, the lanky New Zealander who became the patron saint of left-handers everywhere when he won the British Open, can't see himself repeating the trick in the National PGA here this week.

Charles arrived Sunday night, weary from 72 holes of pressure golf in two days during which he dropped about six pounds from his already spare frame.

"I don't think I'll have much chance here," said the only south-paw ever to win a major golf championship. "The weather was very good in England and now I must try to adjust to the Texas heat. Also, I have to adjust from the small English ball to the American ball and I'll be playing on a new course. It's quite a combination to beat."

But, Charles said "Golf is like picking horses — you never can tell." He said he planned to give it all he has and he figures his game is suitable to the long, narrow fairways and big greens of Dac Country Club course, which measures 7,046 yards and has a 36-55-71 par.

"Winning the British Open became an endurance contest more than a test of golf," said Charles. "Phil Rodgers (who Charles beat in a playoff) felt the strain more than I did in the last 18 holes."

Charles beat Rodgers by eight strokes in the British Open play-off, shooting par 140 on the 36 holes while Rodgers was taking

Dodgers Take 7th Straight, Increase Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The last time the Los Angeles Dodgers made a swing through the East, usually, mild-mannered boss, Walter Alston, got just a little snippy. Said he was tired of being asked when he was going to be fired.

That was a couple of months ago. The Dodgers were in fifth place and four games out.

The Dodgers are now on another Eastern swing. They have won seven straight, own the largest lead the National League has seen in two years—6½ games—their pitching is shaping up as the best in baseball and Walter is just as pleasant as can be.

No one is asking him when he's going to be fired.

The Dodgers extended their string 3-2 behind Johnny Podres Sunday in the rain-shortened first game of a scheduled doubleheader at Philadelphia. The second game was postponed.

The victory added a half game to the Dodger lead over second-place San Francisco, rained out in a scheduled doubleheader at Pittsburgh.

Houston extended the New York Mets' losing string to 15 games, 8-3 in a game that was halted by rain in the eighth. A scheduled second game after the Reds had won the opener 5-3. St. Louis romped to a 10-3 victory over Chicago, then lost 7-3.

In the American League, the New York Yankees stretched their lead to 6½ with an 11-6, 5-0 sweep of Kansas City while second-place Boston split at Los Angeles, losing the first 10-8 and winning the second 5-0. Minnesota beat Cleveland twice, 5-3 and 8-2, while Baltimore and Chicago split. The Orioles won the first 6-3, the White Sox that second 3-2. Detroit was rained out of a doubleheader at Washington.

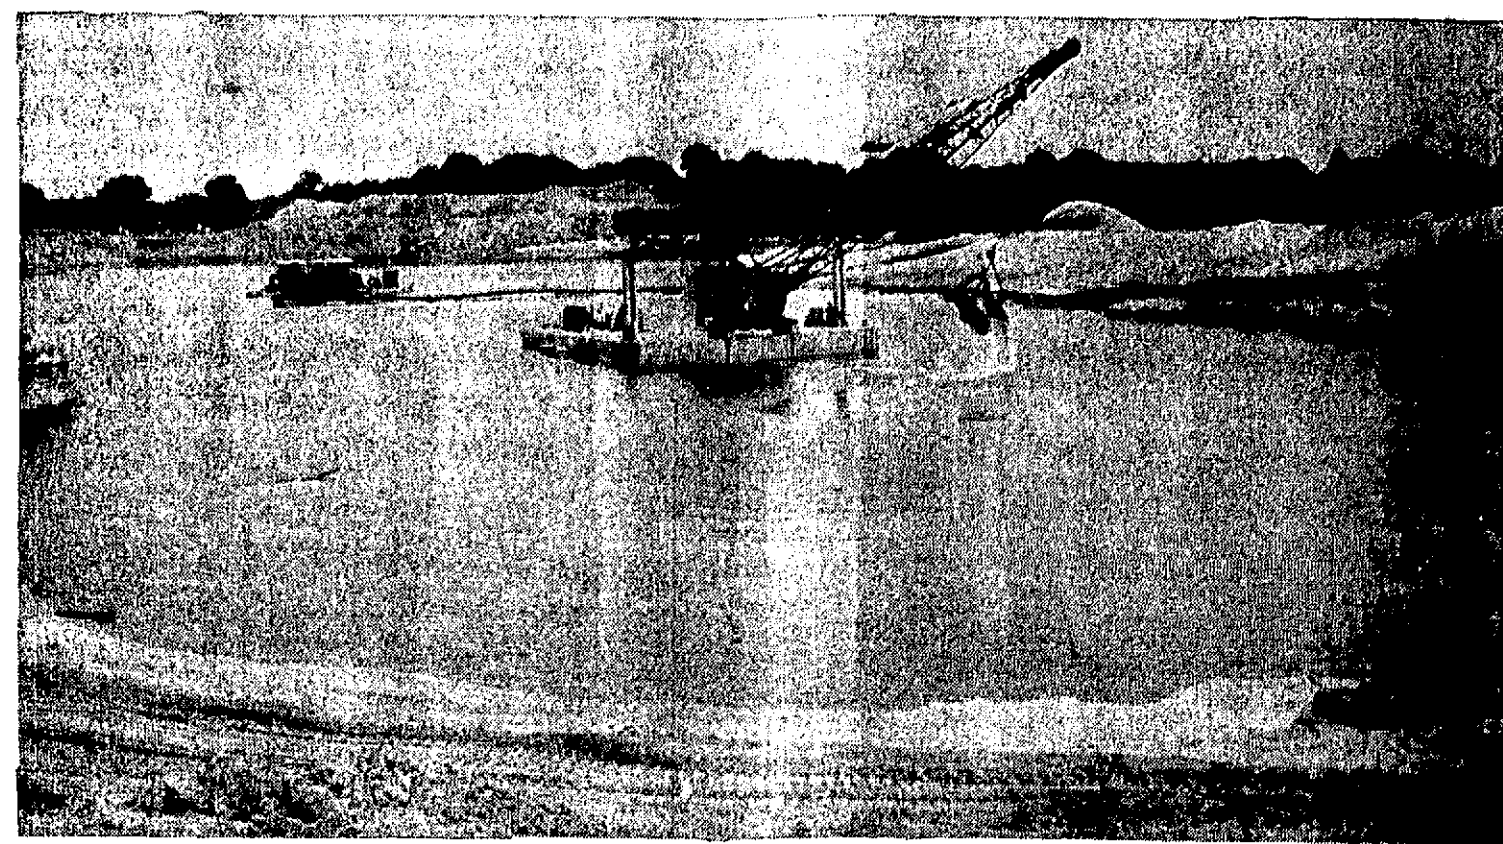

Podres, a lefty on a comeback, now is 8-6 and teams with Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale to give the Dodgers perhaps the best front-line pitching in baseball. His triumph at Philadelphia was his fourth straight victory, all by one run.

Houston built a seven-run first inning around John Bateman's bases-loaded triple and coasted in against the hapless Mets. The game was called after Frank Thomas hit a two-run homer in the Mets' eighth.

Home runs by Marty Keough and Vada Pinson won the opener

148. They had tied at 277 for 72 holes.

Travelers Win Pair From Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP)—The Arkansas Travelers clipped Atlanta 10-3 and 3-0 in an International League baseball doubleheader at Atlanta Sunday, dropping the Crackers into second place in the Southern Division.

Indianapolis took over first place, a one-half game ahead of Atlanta, defeating Syracuse 4-3. The Travelers are third, two games out.

In other International League games, Jacksonville beat Richmond 6-2 and Columbus beat Rochester 8-3. A doubleheader between Buffalo and Toronto was postponed because of rain.

Motive Sought in Couples Slaying

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Police today sought a motive for the slaying of an attractive college coed and her date Sunday.

Blonde Shari K. Smoyer, 18, Ithaca College sophomore and Jack King, 17, a recent high school graduate, were found shot, lying side by side on a lovers' lane in suburban Pittsford. The bodies were face-down in front of King's car.

Police found five empty cartridges and a .45-caliber bullet which apparently passed through one of the bodies, hit the car, and fell to the ground.

BEEN WONDERING WHAT ALL THAT LARGE RIVER dredging equipment is doing south of the Highway 67 bridge at Fulton? The Natural Gas of America Co. is laying a 4,000 foot, 30 inch bypass pipeline across the river.

THE ENGINEERING CONSTRUCTION CO. OF OMAHA, Neb., is laying the line. Some 25 carloads of sand from the river bed is shown in the background. At present a ditch four to six feet in depth is being dug through the hardpan soil where the 1,400 feet of concrete pipe will lay, some 30 feet below the water level. It will take an estimated four to five weeks to complete. The emergency line is being laid to take over if the overhead pipeline should ever go out.

To Plan for Kennedy's Visit

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus, members of the Corps of Engineers and a delegation from Heber Springs were to meet in Faubus' office in Little Rock today to discuss plans for President Kennedy's visit to Arkansas next fall.

Kennedy is to speak at the dedication of Greers Ferry Dam, probably in late September.

A budget of $14,500 has been established to include all requirements of the Secret Service and Army Engineers and several special events for the dedication.

Plans call for construction of a giant stage for 100 dignitaries.

Yanks Struggle Into a Lead of 6½ Games

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Consider the desperate plight of the New York Yankees.

They've been forced to use the likes of Hector Lopez and John Blanchard in the outfield in place of injured super-stars Mickey Vernon and Roger Maris.

They've pressed their aging coach, Yogi Berra, into duty as catcher and pinch hitter.

They've had to put a youthful left-hander named Al Downing straight from the minors into their front-line pitching rotation.

But, somehow or another, the Yankees have struggled into a 6½-game edge in the American League—which is quite an edge for this time of the season, even for the perennial pennant winners.

The Yanks pushed into their biggest lead of the year Sunday with a doubleheader sweep over their favorite opponents, the Kansas City Athletics.

A 14-hit attack led by Lopez, Berra and Blanchard powered the Yanks to an 11-6 victory in the opener, while Downing's four-hit pitching and the slugging of Elston Howard and Tom Tresh won the second game 5-0.

The Boston Red Sox kept their slim hold on second place in a split at Los Angeles, winning the second game 5-0 after the Angels took the opener 11-8. Chicago's third-place White Sox divided with Baltimore, nipping the Orioles 3-2 on Nellie Fox' clutch two-run single in the ninth inning following a 6-3 setback in the first game.

Minnesota unloaded a barrage of home runs and swept Cleveland 5-3 and 8-2.

The Detroit-Washington doubleheader was rained out.

The Los Angeles Dodgers also jumped to a 6½-game lead in the National League by winning their seventh straight, 3-2 over Philadelphia in six innings. The rest of the doubleheader was washed out.

Also in the NL—St. Louis and Chicago split, the Cardinals winning 10-3 and the Cubs 7-3; Cincinnati beat Milwaukee 5-3, then lost to the Braves 7-6; and Houston dealt the New York Mets their 15th loss in a row, 8-3 in a doubleheader opener called in the eighth because of rain. San Francisco's scheduled doubleheader at Pittsburgh also was lost to rain.

The A's drew five walks off Bill Stafford in the first inning

A&M College at Monticello. Clinton R. Walker of Memphis, president of the Dixie Music Camp Association, said 360 students from 53 Arkansas cities and three other states attended last year.

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—William R. Clark, chief of the planning and reports branch of the Little Rock District of the Corps of Engineers, has been named chief of the basin planning branch of the Mississippi River Commission at Vicksburg, Miss.

of the opener at Kansas City, taking a 4-0 lead, but the Yanks pounded back and finally made a rout of it with five runs in the eighth.

The 22-year-old Downing struck out 10 in his third shutout and fifth victory since being promoted from Richmond last month.

Chet Nichols and relief ace Dick Radatz combined for a five-hit shutout for the Red Sox in the second game at Los Angeles, while in the opener the Angels drew seven walks and every one became a run.

Fox brought the White Sox a split with the Orioles when he banged a bases-loaded single with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning.

The second game was marred by a beanballing incident in which Manager Billy Hitchcock of the Orioles had to be restrained as he charged toward White Sox pitcher John Buzhardt. Jerry Adair was hit in the mouth and Brooks Robinson in the helmet by Buzhardt fast balls.

Homers brought Minnesota 11 of its 13 runs in the sweep over Cleveland. Reserve Don Mincher, belted a grand slam and Harmon Killebrew hit a two-run shot in the second game, while Earl Battey, Zoilo Versalles and Vic Power connected in the opener. Jim Kaat and Bill Pleis were the winning pitchers.
